MNAA Construction Director Christine Vitt Graduates from Scarlett Signature Executive Leadership Program

NASHVILLE, Tenn. – Christine Vitt, director of construction for the Metropolitan Nashville Airport Authority (MNAA), recently graduated from the Scarlett Signature Executive Program, which is part of Belmont University’s Scarlett Leadership Institute.

“We are proud of Christine’s completion of the Scarlett Signature Executive Leadership Program,” said Raul Regalado, president and CEO of the MNAA. “We look forward to her continued contributions to the MNAA team as we work hard every day to provide the Nashville Airports Experience to our passengers and partners.”

The 14-month Signature Executive Program is a "for-leaders by-leaders" executive education course designed by leading business minds to develop the people and talent they most need to support the continued success of their organizations. This program offers a unique and engaging means of transferring leadership experience to the next generation of business leaders.

Vitt has 20 years of engineering experience. A professional engineer, Vitt holds a bachelor’s degree from the Rochester Institute of Technology.

The Metropolitan Nashville Airport Authority (MNAA) was established in 1970, and owns and operates the Nashville International Airport (BNA) and John C. Tune Airport (JWN). For more information, please visit www.flynashville.com.
